Hugged the Marshal.

"Coon" Moore, a resident of Elliott county, convulsed the entire Federal Court with laughter at Covington the other day by detailing how he arrested L. J. Cox, who was on trial for breaking into a bonded warehouse, and how he subsequently escaped from him. The story was told by Moore on the witness stand in about as follows: "I heard that there was a warrant for Cox's arrest for breaking into a warehouse. I had another warrant for him and went to church where funeral services were being conducted over somebody who told me was his wife. I told him I wanted him, and he told me he would go along. He shook hands all round, and when we left church he tried to break up. I went past his house and he asked me to come in so he could fix up some business matters. When we got to the house there was some company, and he asked me to take off the bracelets and he would play the fiddle. He had two mighty pretty daughters playing around the room, and when supper time came all went to supper but us four. Cox was playing 'The Arkansas Traveller.' His two girls suddenly put their arms around my neck and Cox went out the back door, and that was the last I saw of him till I saw him in Court this afternoon."

THOMAS.

Our lumber men are getting lots of lumber to market on the high water. Mrs. Laura Cline, who had been on a visit to friends in Indiana, was brought home dead last Wednesday. Her family knew nothing of her illness until they received the news of her death. She leaves a husband and five children to mourn their loss. They have our deepest sympathy. Our merchants are getting in lots of goods while there is plenty of water. M. A. Hatfield, of Wharncliffe, Va., visited his daughters, Mrs. Belle Blackburn and Mrs. Mary McCoy last week. Wade Little son of Thomas Blackburn, is very low with fever. James Burnett has moved back to Johns creek. He has been living in West Virginia the past two weeks. Jim says there's no place like home. The News does not reach us until Thursday. How is this? We ought to get it on Saturday. Ada Blackburn has been on the sick list. Red Rose.

Railway charges, list lights, riotous conduct and disorder generally prevailed in the Illinois Legislature yesterday because of the Chicago street railroad franchises, the issue being precipitated by the recalcitrant proceedings against the traction companies. The regular Speaker and Clerk were overthrown and another bill was substituted for the one pending. Finally a truce was agreed upon and the light will be resumed today where it left off when the regular Speaker was overthrown.

Mrs. Henry E. Yontsey was called by the defense as a witness in the Jim Howard case at Frankfort yesterday. The Commonwealth's attorneys objected to her giving testimony and Judge Cantrill sustained the objection. She was asked several questions in regard to statements made to her by her husband after his incarceration in the State prison, but was not permitted to answer. On leaving the stand Mrs. Yontsey created something of a sensation in the court room by shaking hands with Jim Howard and his wife.

Investigation of alleged crookedness in the Post-office Department took a sensational turn yesterday when announcement was made that Mrs. Tyrer, wife of James N. Tyrer, Assistant Attorney General for the Post Office Department, had visited his private office in the department and, with the assistance of an expert safe man, had opened the safe and taken away valuable papers. At Santa Fe, N. M., a mob of white farmers lynched an unknown negro youth for attempting to assault a ten-year-old white girl. After hanging their victim the farmers made a general onslaught on a colony of negro bridge builders who were living in tents. The tents were burned and the negroes were driven to the woods after several of them had been wounded by a fusillade of shots. This occurred in the north.

The papers abstracted from a safe in the Postoffice Department by Mrs. James N. Tyrer and Mrs. Barrett were returned yesterday by the lawyers for Tyrers, but Postmaster General Payne declined to accept the statement of the Tyrers that the returned packages included all papers taken from the department. ## CITY MOONSHINERS.

Mild Distilling Done in the Heart of the Big Cities.

"The chief center of the moonshine whisky business today is not in the mountains of Kentucky or North Carolina, but right here in New York City," said a high official of the Government revenue service. "The persons engaged in it are largely Poles, who are the cleverest 'wildcaters' on earth, frequently defying the skill of our most expert detectives."

"Moonshiners find better concealment in this metropolis than anywhere else, and hundreds of them are constantly at work in Brooklyn and Jersey City, as well as in Manhattan. Most of them pursue their unlawful industry on a small scale, but the loss to Uncle Sam represented by their operations is to the aggregate great. They hide themselves in every imaginable kind of place, even to large buildings, where hundreds of respectable people are their fellow tenants, and the means they adopt for disguising their practices are extraordinarily ingenious."

"The liquor-making plant is arranged, most commonly, on a method involving the utmost possible concealment. Sugar is the raw material used, because it can be packed in small compass—a pound of its yielding as much alcohol as twenty pounds of corn—and enough of it to supply a fairly productive still may be carried in a house without exciting notice. The product, incidentally to the distilling process, is run up far beyond 'proof,' which is 50 per cent alcohol, so that it can be diluted after passing into other hands."

"The receptacle most frequently used for carrying the whiskey is a telescope satchel, which contains a rectangular can made to fit it exactly. There is no special reason for suspecting a man who walks out upon the street with such a bag in his hand; and, if he is a Pole, it is very difficult to spot him. This particular variety of moonshiner is not only smart, but exceedingly cautious and patient; and he will often go around a block six times, turning repeatedly on his own track, in order to make sure that he is not followed."

"How, then, do our detectives manage to smell out the moonshiners who infest New York and its neighborhood? It is by following the patience of the Pole. Sometimes when our suspicious have been aroused we track a man for six months or more before we get him. The tricks we must learn are innumerable and now ones are constantly invented to puzzle us. For example, an elderly person of benevolent aspect is seen coming out of a house with a section of stovepipe over his shoulder. If look innocent, but if we know our business we may suspect that the stovepipe contains a cylindrical can full of illicit whiskey."

"With a supply of sugar, the metropolitan wildcat has only to add water and yeast, and his mash is ready. His apparatus is so compact that he can put it on the stove. When the process of distillation is finished he takes it apart and hides the dismembered fragments in convenient places. The liquor he conveys away from the premises and sells it to retail dealers, or sometimes directly to consumers, who buy the very poison at so much per drink."

"When I speak of 'smelling out' the moonshiners, I use the term advisedly, inasmuch as the most successful method adopted by the Government detectives for locating illicit stills in New York and other cities is by the nose. The distiller may succeed in concealing his plant and in selling his product safely, but he has not yet found any way of smothering the odor of the mash, which is peculiar and never to be mistaken. It used to be said of the famous revenue agent, P. H. Hawley, that he could scent a still as a bloodhound follows a warm trail through a swamp. Walking slowly along a street he would begin suddenly to sniff the air, moisten his finger with his tongue and hold it up to see which way the wind was blowing. Then he would go in a bow-line to the unlawful distillery."

A Little Early Riser
Now and then, at bedtime will cure constipation, biliousness and liver troubles. DeWitt's Little Early Risers are the famous little pills that cure by arousing the secretions, moving the bowels gently, yet effectively, and giving such tone and strength to the glands of the stomach and liver that the cause of the trouble is removed entirely, and if their use is continued for a few days, there will be no return of the complaint. Sold by the Louisa Drug Co., Dr. J. D. Higgs, Mgr.

Ruth one of Owen county's best farmers, reports that in March, 1902, he bought an Owen county farm for which he paid $43,355, and last year, the tobacco he had grown on his farm brought him $25,077, besides 125 barrels of corn, 140 dozen oats, and sold $1,106 worth of lumber and wood from the place. ## Too Great a Risk.

In almost every neighborhood someone has died from an attack of cholera or cholera morbus, often before medicine could be procured or a physician summoned. A reliable remedy for these diseases should be kept at hand. This risk is too great for anyone to take. Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy has undoubtedly saved the lives of more people and relieved more pain and suffering than any other medicine in use. It can always be depended upon. For sale by A. M. Hughes.

To Sunday Schools and Churches.

The Sunday Schools and churches of Lawrence: I desire to say that the Executive Committee of the County Sunday School Association at its last meeting inaugurated a plan by which it hopes to reach and help every school in the county. The plan is for a systematic campaign of the county by Magisterial District. One or more field workers have been assigned for each district to assist the officers of the district association in visiting schools, collecting reports, and holding rallies and conventions.

In 1902 there were enrolled in the Sunday schools of this county 2,851 pupils, 10 per cent of this number was adults. The public school census for the same year shows more than 2,000 pupils in the county. Make the distinction yourself. More than 500 or 71 per cent of our boys and girls received little or no Bible training last year. The object of the Sunday School Association is to carry the open Bible in the hands of a living teacher to every one of them. To this end we ask the co-operation of all denominations, churches, pastors, laymen and laywomen in the county.

At the close of this campaign, and after all the district conventions are over, we are planning to hold at Louisville on August 13, 14, 15, the County Convention which we hope to make the grandest religious convention ever held in the mountains of Kentucky. I shall ask the editor of the News for space to say more about this convention later.

A Farmer Straightened Out.
"A man living on a farm near here came in a short time ago completely doped up with rheumatism. I handed him a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm and told him to use it freely and if not satisfied after using it he need not pay a cent for it," says T. P. Rayler, of Potters Mills, N. Y. "A few days later he walked into the store as straight as a string and handed me a dollar saying, 'Give me another bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm. I want it in the house all the time for it cured me.'" For sale by A. M. Hughes.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

Apperson Lodge, No. 195, F. & A. M.

Whereas, It has pleased the Grand Master on high to take from our much beloved brother, Wm. Waldeck, on April 21st, 1903, at 3 o'clock a. m., an unexpected moment, he is Resolved, First, That, in the death of brother Waldeck, Apperson Lodge has lost one of its best and most devoted members, this community a valuable citizen, the church a zealous worker and devoted christian. He became a Mason in Apperson Lodge, No. 195, Feb. 12, 1887. We as his co-laborers, realize our broken ranks, his vacant chair, his hushed voice, and our lodge realizes the loss of a true and faithful Mason, and that his dear wife has been deprived of her earthly companion, his children of the protection and loving counsel of a fond father.

Second, That, Apperson Lodge, No. 195, F. & A. M., be draped in mourning and that the brethren wear the usual badge of mourning 30 days.

Third, That we as true and accepted Masons extend to the widow, children, brothers and sisters of our deceased brother our heartfelt sympathy.

Fourth, That, these resolutions be spread on our record, and a copy be furnished to the bereft family and a copy sent to the Big Sandy News for publication.

Fraternally submitted,

GREATLY ALARMED

By a Persistent Cough, but Permanently Cured by Chamberlain's Cough Remedy.

Mr. H. P. Burbridge, a student at law, in Greenville, S. C., had been troubled for four or five years with a continuous cough which he says, "greatly alarmed me, causing me to fear that I was in the first stage of consumption." Mr. Burbridge, having seen Chamberlain's Cough Remedy advertised, concluded to try it. Now read what he says of it: "I soon felt a remarkable change and after using two bottles of the twenty-cent size was permanently cured." Sold by A. M. Hughes.

The burdens imposed by friendship keep many shoulders round.

W. I. Mayo, of Paintsville, was here Monday.

O. J. Conley contemplates a business trip to Pikeville soon. He expects to take charge of a surveying party about the first of May.

Some of the brethren have been drunk and flourishing "hoss pistol."

They got off pretty easy, and now come the boys who were threatened to the extent of the law when the alcohol-trotter was in its vicious youth, and give all kinds of explanations. One says, "Oh! the lodge." Another cries, "Masonic Lodge." Verily, the Judge is belabored like the poor newspaper man. It is hard to please the fellow whose errors have brought him against a hard proposition. As to our roads, there is pretty good sentiment here. We hope our county clerk will give us some more who are not too thick with "the boys". Mr. Judge, what about the railroad boys? Are they subject to revivify? Does a boarder here on temporary business have to work?

The Beaver creek oil field each day shows steady development. The unusual rainfall by keeping the roads in bad condition has retarded work, but leasing is active and new locations are being made daily. As soon as the roads become good many rigs will go up and wells will go down. There is a new rig under way on the Frank Coffee farm about four miles from Monticello, and two miles north of the Roberts well. The Roberts well is as steady as grandfather's clock. On Dr. Coffee's farm, a mile to the northwest of the famous Sandusky farm, P. M. Howard and associates are moving in machinery for a well.

The Bradford, Penn., people represented by John Jack, expect their C. B. Coffee well in early next week. The well being drilled by William Potter & Bro. for the Riverton company at Cooper, will reach the sand on Monday.

The Standard people are surveying their tracts preparatory to putting down several wells. It is understood that the Standard would believe in rich pay at deeper depth than has been heretofore drilled in the field and will put down two or more test wells. With the old Veleory, Slagle and Sandusky fields holding up and new ones coming in the sureness of Beaver creek seems assured.—Catlettsburg Press.
